Holiday certificate swap in progress

BY TRACI BONNEY
Looking for that just-right Christmas gift, but you're fresh out of ideas?

Well, here's one for you. Merchants in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Diamondhead are participating in a gift certificate swap as part of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Red Ribbon Christmas activities.

Registration boxes will be placed at 42 stores, restaurants and other establishments throughout the county. The registration in one store will be for a gift certificate in another store. This will provide shoppers a chance and a unique reason to check out stores other than those they normally shop at in Hancock County.

Registration begins today and will continue until Saturday, Dec. 14. The drawings will be that evening, and will be announced in the December 19 edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

Winners will have until December 31 to redeem their gift certificates.

So, if you know that hard-to-shop-for person on your list likes a certain store, why not register her or him for that store's drawing? Of course, to be on the safe side, you need to go ahead and buy a present.

But if that person's name is drawn, you may have made his or her Christmas a little brighter.

And besides, you can always keep the gift you bought if you like it.

Phone scamp strikes in Mississippi

BY TRACI BONNEY

A new telephone scam has hit Mississippi. Major Jay Clark, chief investigator for the Highway Patrol's Criminal Investigation Bureau, notified Jackson area residents Monday that a person identifying himself as a law enforcement officer is calling people, telling them an emergency exists and asking them to wire funds.

Clark said the caller claims money is needed for medical bills, motor vehicle towing or some other emergency service.

"Since the caller is identifying himself as a law enforcement officer, in addition to the normal emotions involved in a potential emergency, people are more vulnerable to this type crime and thus it is lucrative to the criminal element," Clark stated.

At least four businesses along Interstate 20 in Jackson have been contacted within the last week by a caller who identifies himself as a highway patrol trooper or a police officer and asks that money be wired to an in-state location, Clark stated.

He said the caller is specific in the steps that need to be taken to wire the money. "In other words, they are very familiar with the process involved in both wiring and receiving money."

"Crimes similar to the one described have been reported to be occurring for the past several years over the United States. Citizens contacted are urged to ask for a call-back number or check with their local police department or the Mississippi Highway Patrol to ascertain if a legitimate emergency exists. If it is a legitimate emergency or need, the caller identifying himself as a police officer or state trooper will not hesitate to provide a call-back number or provide more details."

Clark said those who feel they have been victimized by this type of crime, or who have knowledge about the person responsible for the calls, should contact the highway patrol's Criminal Investigation Bureau in Jackson at 987-1560, their local police department or county sheriff.

Making wishes

Local kids contemplate Christmas

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

With Thanksgiving over and Christmas on its way, it is time to begin preparations for the night of the jolly visitor.

And who are those who prepare the most? Who else but the children. The children who will be visited as they sleep and wake to that most wonderful of wonders, Christmas morning.

Tucked far back into a local department store are several aisles filled to the ceiling with the stuff of dreams.

There are dolls and wagons, blocks and bicycles, games and balls and everything.

There are also children. Children of all ages, touching this and bouncing that. After all, how can you know for what to ask without some review of all there is available.

Chassity McKinnon, age 4, knew exactly what she wanted, a Barbie doll. Her brother Nathan, age 3, stretched his hands wide in description as he answered, "a truck."

Moving on to a bit older group of children, it became obvious that with an increase in age came an increase in wish.

Eleven-year-old Chris Bur-nakam said the Typhoon II hovercraft was the perfect present for him. Nine-year-old Jason Landry said he wants the electronic Hot Shot basketball game while eight-year-old Anthony Chapman said he would like the Mouse-Trap game. Nine-year-old Bobby Smith answered, "Ninja Turtles."

Libby Gyins, age 6, repeated the word "BIG" when she described the 10-speed bicycle she was hoping for this year. Gyins' 12-year-old sister, Racquel, listed her wishes, "a computer, clothes and one toy."

Racquel's wish list reflects the psychology of 12-year old girl better than all the analytical testing available through modern medicine.

"A computer," quite practical for today's time. "Clothes," ah, every young lady likes to look her best. "And one toy," after all, the young lady is still a little girl. Too soon must we leave the world of childhood behind forever.

The children all expressed a desire to see Christmas Day hurry on its way, the parents did not.

There was one rather large male maneuvering the sound effects on a fighter jet plane. As he stood engrossed in the toy, a sales lady walked up and asked that he not play with the toy. He

Coleman Avenue lights greet holidays

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Next Sunday at 5 p.m. merchants and residents of Coleman Avenue will flip light switches in unison and the city's first "Festival of Lights" celebration will begin.

The festival is intended to set the mood for Christmas, and is offered as a street-wide open house.

While one strolls the avenue, merchants and residents will greet each passerby with a cookie or a sip of punch.

The city is decorating the avenue's light posts along with

City Hall and the City Hall annex building. Each resident and merchant is decorating his own establishment.

St. Rose de Lima Choir will begin performing at 5:30 p.m. from City Hall. Colby Fabian will be playing the keyboard at the Waveland Library and will be accompanied by the Sweet Adeline singers. Various groups will be singing Christmas carols throughout the evening, and the public is invited to join in.

Trolley rides will be available for a tour of Christmas Card Lane and Christmas Door Lane. Santa Claus will be the highlight of the festival as he distributes goodies for all the children.

Refreshments and treats to be offered along Coleman Avenue are:

—punch and cookies at Waveland Drug Store Co. and Peterman's Lil Super Food Mart;

—candy canes at Ashman-

Mollere Realty and Dixie Signs —hot apple cider, cookies, candy canes and bookmarks at the library;

—cookies at Coda International Inc.;

—coffee and homemade fudge at Caldwell's Grocery and Deli;

—candy at the Merchants Bank and Toomey's Shell

Historic impact may restrain casino

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Gaming impact on the Bay St. Louis historic district was singled out Tuesday as the only foreseeable restraint in Mardi Gras Casino Corporation's permitting process.

Ron Krizman, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers chief of regulatory function branch, told members of the Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association (T&G) input from the state historic preservation office is the only area from where he anticipates objections to the location of the casino near the Bay bridge.

Krizman, his project manager, John Winn, and chief of coastal management for the Bureau of Marine Resources (BMR) Larry Lewis were guest speakers at the T&G meeting.

Following a presentation on the steps of the permitting process, T&G members questioned the three men.

Members were told although Mardi Gras Casino Corporation requested a hold on their permit application, the process of working out various problem points continues.

As an example, Krizman said he had concerns about how and where the casino barges would be relocated in case of a hurricane threat. "This question along with others will be answered before the application process is continued."

Responding to whether an archeological evaluation was necessary at the proposed Bay bridge site, Krizman said, "Yes,

Site approval confusion concerns Royal Walker

BY TRACI BONNEY

The State Gaming Commission wishes to clear up a misconception. Commission director Royal Walker Jr. said some people apparently believe the Gaming Commission's approval of a site for a gambling operation is the final approval of that site.

"Just because we approve a site doesn't mean an operation can go there," he stated. "There are still a lot of hoops the developer has to jump through before that happens."

PPEC puts sunshine in disabled youths' summer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a continuing series of articles about agencies and services supported by the United Way of Hancock County.

BY TRACI BONNEY

Parents and Professionals of Exceptional Children, a United Way agency, provides a summer recreational program for mentally and physically challenged children.

Ann Ladner said the program gives children recreational activities that enhance fine and gross motor development, provide physical exercise, and offer opportunities to develop social skills with their peers.

The program, held at North Bay Elementary School in a recreational room and managed by two qualified instructors and an assistant, has been in operation three years.

Ladner said, "Some of the activities planned during the three-hour period include jumping, reading, kick ball, basketball, board, running and music games, dancing, and arts and crafts."

"Also, one day a week a special outing is held to help promote behavior, decision making, purchasing and recreational skills. The children have been on field trips to McDonald's, Choctaw Plaza Cinema IV, Waveland Resort Inn miniature golf course, the Zoo Mobile, the Twin Pines Roller Rink, Waveland Avenue park and playground, and the Bay St. Louis library."

Children in PPEC have opportunities to participate in other activities outside those offered by the organization.

In addition to the main emphasis on recreation for the children, PPEC also focuses its attention on parents, educators and others. The organization holds informational meetings for parents which include guest speakers from various agencies and organizations — the Toy Library-Coast, Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, Special Olympics, Key Club, Mississippi Protection Advocacy for disabled persons, a CPR instructor and the Bay St. Louis Waveland school district's parent trainer and social worker.

"Many members have passed on information to other parents in an effective way to provide ideas and assistance to each other in raising children with disabilities," Ladner commented.

Those interested in becoming a member of PPEC should contact Ladner at 467-6254 or Linda Salaun at 467-7538.

"The developer still has to meet BMR, Corps of Engineers and Archives and History Department standards, as well as those of a number of other federal and state regulatory agencies. In addition, the developer must comply with local zoning regulations."

Walker said when the Gaming Commission adopted its regulations in September, the commission deferred a good deal of authority in zoning matters and their relationships to particular sites to local governing agencies.

He added that the problem of vessel certification was resolved when the regulations were adopted by the commission's arranging for the American Bureau of Shipbuilding to certify permanently moored vessels.

A problem arose because the Gaming Control Act of 1990 calls for Coast Guard certification of dockside vessels, but the Coast Guard by policy does not certify permanently moored boats.

Walker said the ABS is contracted with the Coast Guard to certify such vessels, so having the bureau perform this duty is no problem.

ON PATROL

From Echo Staff Reports

RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda reported Tuesday the arrest last Friday of a Carriere man on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Hoda said that at about 8:53 a.m. November 23, Jason Sanford, 21, of Carriere community, was arrested and charged with receiving stolen property as a result of a trailer search in the Bienville community in north Hancock County.

The search, made in conjunction with the Pearl River County Sheriff's Office, resulted in the recovery of stereo equipment and other items the Pearl River County department had reported stolen.

Hoda said that during the search, three-fourths of a pound of marijuana was found and turned over to Hancock County Metro Narcotics Task Force director Glenn Strong.

The case is still under investigation, and a juvenile is being sought in connection with it, Hoda added.

Sanford was jailed in Hancock County under $2500 bond. Hoda was assisted by Deputy George Burleson, Strong and Pearl River County deputies Jerry Spence, Butch Raby and Sgt. Charles Fazende.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Are you one of those who waits until the last minute to do your Christmas shopping, or one who prepares early and shops while selection and varieties are good? And, of course, there are some folks who are somewhere in between those two extremes.

Jane and I try to get our shopping done early; especially Jane, as she hates to shop with the crowds. The month of December is chocked full of events relating to Christmas in Hancock County.

A talent show, Red Ribbon Christmas parade, Santa's visit, festival of lights, tour of homes, old time trolley rides, gingerbread house contest, handbell choir, Christmas Traditions Concert, boaters parade, luminary lighting, singing Santa concert, photos with Santa, and on it goes.

In this issue of The Echo, we have a 24-page special section on the Red Ribbon Christmas, which gives particulars on these and other functions happening this month.

Some of you may want to try your luck at winning a gift certificate from one of the 84 merchants who are participating in the gift certificate swap.

All you have to do is register at the participating merchants.

I would suggest that everyone try and do shopping early, as this offers a good chance of finding just the right Christmas gifts.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Throwing money at problems is popular, but not solution

Voters across the nation are fed up with incumbents and scared of a deepening nationwide recession.

Most economic indicators, including orders of durable goods, manufacturing employment, and new home sales, are sharply down; and the merchandise-trade deficit is widening.

And as the recession worsens, public confidence in the Bush administration seems to be eroding, leaving the Democrats with what they feel is an opening to seriously damage the President's chance at a second term in office.

Indeed, polls show that if the economy worsens, Bush will be in serious trouble, even against an untested and relatively unknown Democratic challenger.

With an incumbent President in trouble, you can be sure that real fiscal accountability will not be the battle cry of some of these challengers as they attempt to exploit voter insecurity.

While some candidates, like Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton and Nebraska Senator Bob Kerrey, are stressing a slimmed down federal government and embracing the notion of individual responsibility, others, like Iowa Senator Tom Harkin, are promising the farm in an attempt to boost their appeal among the disgruntled.

In the last week alone, Harkin has called for heavy new public spending on everything from education to national health insurance—spending that would be politically popular but economically disastrous.

Additional federal spending in a time of record national deficits means that more and more of the responsibility for paying for these programs will be shifted to our state. And our small businesses, many already on the brink of going under, will have to pick up their share of the costs.

Seventy-one percent of our state budget is already committed to mandated federal and state programs, not including the almost 20 percent allocated for public education. This leaves lawmakers with less than 10 percent of the General Fund to tinker with in times of trouble.

Cruise ship bill passes house

America is one step closer to being allowed to compete in the lucrative cruise ship industry.

Last week, the U.S. Flag Cruise Ship Safety and Competitiveness Act (H.R. 3282) which I have sponsored, was unanimously passed by the House. This legislation will cost the federal government nothing while creating hundreds if not thousands of jobs for American and South Mississippi shipyard workers.

The bill would amend the Johnson Act, which bars U.S.-flag cruise ships from offering gambling to passengers. This law allows foreign-flag cruise ships with gambling devices on board, to dock in American ports, but forbids American ships the same privilege.

Since 1951, foreign made, crewed and owned ships have been doing what Americans are prohibited by law from doing in our own waters. Now is the time to put an end to this unfair practice and give this $10 billion industry back to America's shipbuilders and sailors.

Americans will pump more money into the lucrative cruise ship industry than any other country in the world. Nearly 80 percent of all passengers boarding cruise ships are Americans. However, less than two percent of those passengers will set foot on the decks of an American-flag ship.

The bill will allow for American ownership, create jobs for America's maritime sailor, increase our nation's industrial base and save the floundering U.S. cruise ship industry.

It's astounding that in the past three years the U.S. has failed to build a single Merchant Marine ship. To add to this atrocity, during Operation Desert Storm and Shield, the U.S. was so desperate for ships, needed to transport troops and supplies to the Persian Gulf, that the U.S. had to lease 80 vessels from foreign governments.

I believe if this bill is passed by the Senate and signed into law by the President, we will see the rebirth of America's cruise ship industry in the next decade. America can compete and regain its position in the cruise ship industry if only given the chance.

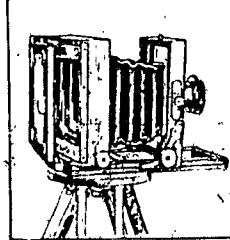

The bill will be sent to the Senate for consideration.

—Craig Sellier of Lakeshore was displaying two loggerhead turtles he recently caught in Bayou LaCroix while fishing. One turtle weighed 51 pounds and the other 61 pounds on a scale outside Kent & Sue's store in Lakeshore. Although thoughts of turtle soup were tempting, Sellier returned the prehistoric monsters to their native habitat in the bayou. He estimated the turtles to be more than 100 years old since he has heard reports that these turtles grow approximately one inch every year.

DIABETICS' GUM CONCERNS

Q. What is the relationship between diabetes and gum disease?

A. When diabetics experience gum disease, it often becomes a severe case and healing may take longer than usual. Moreover, a gum infection can cause a rise in blood glucose and other adverse effects. If you have diabetes, tell your dentist.

Dr. Frank Conaway

Gum disease is caused by bacteria in plaque, the sticky, colorless film that constantly builds up on the teeth. In some people, diabetes impairs the body's natural defenses against bacteria and other disease-causing organisms and this allows gum infections to develop rapidly. For those reasons, people with diabetes should faithfully brush and floss to control plaque buildup, get regular dental checkups and cleanings to remove "hidden" plaque, and seek immediate treatment if gums become red, tender or swollen, or if they bleed when the teeth are brushed. The earlier that gum disease is treated the better for anyone, but especially so for diabetics. Presented as a community service by

READING THE BIBLE IS RAPID COMMUNICATION WITH GOD

We live in an age of rapid communication: the telephone and all its related devices, the telegram, express mail, and the incredible FAX machine, by which we can relay our messages, thousands of miles in a few minutes. Our choice of method depends, of course, on the urgency of the information we are trying to send or receive. There are times, however, when we need help or advice from a higher source than any that can be reached by some modern communication channel. That can be obtained at our House of Worship and by talking to our clergyman. Moreover, when that isn't feasible, there is always the Bible; waiting there, on the bookshelf. It contains God's vital messages for us, and we need only open it in order to receive them instantly.

As a guide, the Bible is without a rival — Author unknown

They received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily — Acts 17:11

Cabbage and other quick-fix post-Thanksgiving Day meals

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

After the "fancy food" and all the extra delectables on the Thanksgiving tables, we find that our area supermarket shelves are stocked high with bargains in those good old staples and standbys—rice, beans, pasta, potatoes as well as good cuts in ground beef, pork cuts and the ever-budget-helping chicken leg quarters I'm needy for "down-up-simple feed!"

There are also good buys in flour and sugar, cake mixes and all the other items you need for cooking up Yuletide "goodies" for gift giving as well as family pleasure—meanwhile.

For an easy and substantial meal, as well as an economical one, snap up a package of "11 or 17 bean soup" or whatever number-of-bean-soup mix you like, and let this hearty soup simmer away while you're busy doing something else. I shall replace the usual "Monday-Red-Beans-and-Rice" meal with a pot of this soup, giving me lots of leftovers as well.

A friend of mine makes this bean mix—and what a variety of beans—into a casserole instead of soup, and at times tops it with shredded Cheddar cheese. It makes for an easy-on-the-cook buffet dish, as well.

The vegetable bins are a-brim with cabbage, also the aforementioned potatoes, along with winter squash of all sorts.

(Mirlitons are down a bit in price, incidentally.) I had an extra cabbage on hand (which I had hollowed out to hold a creamy dip at cocktail time), so I cooked up this good dish.

CABBAGE IN CREAM
4 cups shredded cabbage
1/4 cup light cream
1 Tbsp. butter

Dash of ground nutmeg, with pepper and salt to your taste

Briefly cook the cabbage without water, or with no more than a fourth to a half inch at the bottom of the pot, for just six or seven minutes, or until barely tender. Drain if needed, add the cream and butter, and heat very, very slowly, stirring ever so gently with a fork. Add nutmeg, pepper and salt (if you're using salt.)

Those who claim that cabbage and digestion are incompatible might try it this way—barely "al dente" to the teeth—as one cooks just to the point at which it has some slight, fairly crunchy resistance to the bite. Here's

Quick Cabbage

Just quarter and then slice the cabbage into medium-size pieces, place the cabbage (with out adding any water, at all) in a heavy pot, turn the fire lower than low, as low as you possible can. Next, season with a bit of pepper and salt, and cook for a few minutes, seasoning additionally with a slice, or with chunks, of ham as you please. This cabbage stays a lovely green, not the brownish color of cabbage cooked down and down for a long time.

Celebrating Christmas "Old Town" style

"Old Town" Bay St. Louis is hanging up its red ribbon and rolling out the red carpet for the Christmas holidays. Traditional celebrations and decorations will enhance the "Old Town" area of Main Street and Beach Boulevard.

The lovingly renovated "Old Town" area is a delightful experience any time of the year, but Christmas is really special. Streets are decorated with Christmas cards executed by the local arts community, luminaries are lighted at dusk, and the strength of community is evident.

"Old Town" merchants have extended hours for annual house parties for customers and guests. You may shop for sophisticated antiques, exquisite crystal, colorful wind socks, food stuffs to delight and palette, collectibles, or toys.

December 7, 14 and 21 are the highlight days of Christmas in "Old Town" with the Christmas parade, trolley rides, Santa's Shop, Holiday Fashion Show, tour of homes, luminarie lighting, and Main Street Market.

Christmas is the time for sharing, and you and your family may bring items for the Toy and Doll Fund, or non-perishable goods for the Food Pantry. There will be collection points located on the courthouse lawn on Saturday, December 7.

If you have forgotten the days when Main Street served as the heart of the city, treat yourself during the holidays. Park your car, walk and remember. Take the time to enjoy the restoration and revitalization of your hometown.

Red Ribbon trolley Ride

Bay St. Louis residents and holiday visitors can enjoy a special Red Ribbon treat December 14 from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. compliments of the Peoples Bank and the Hancock County Historical Society. One of the Coast Area Transit Trolleys will tour part of the historic Beach Boulevard District every half hour.

Charles Gray and a group of Society volunteers will provide a mini history lesson of the area, its architecture and entertaining historical gossip. The trolley will leave from the rear of the Hancock County Courthouse, travel Second Street, Union Street, Beach Boulevard, Main Street, Ulman, Carroll and De Montluzin avenues and return to the courthouse.

The Kate Lobrano House, 108 Cue Street, home of the Historical Society will be open for visitors from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Girl Scouts' Giving Tree

The Bay-Waveland Girl Scout Neighborhood will decorate the "Giving Tree" during the annual Red Ribbon Christmas Parade, December 7, beginning at 3 p.m. The "Giving Tree" will be located on the lawn of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Each Scout will place an ornament on the tree and a gift for the Fire Department Doll and Toy Fund in the Christmas Gift House.

According to Gayle Eagan, neighborhood leader, "This is our way of contributing to the holiday spirit of the community. We invite parents and children coming to view the parade and enjoy festivities to also bring an ornament and a small gift to share with those less fortunate."

For more information on the Fire Department Doll and Toy Fund call 467-4736.

Christmas tour of homes

Celebrate the charm of a Red Ribbon Christmas by the Bay visiting three of the area's most charming homes Saturday, Dec. 14 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

The Christmas Home Tour, sponsored by the Hancock County Historical Society, includes the homes of three of its members and the Kate Lobrano House, home of the Historical Society.

Tickets are $5 in advance, available at Ruth's Bakery, 130 Court Street, Olde Towne Restaurant, 119 Main Street or the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Office, Hwy. 90 or $2 per home on tour day.

Mumme Home

504 Nicholson Avenue
Waveland
10 a.m.-noon

The Mumme home was once part of the thriving Ulman's Woolen Mill of Waveland. Built in the 1800's by Alfred A. Ulman, one of Waveland's first aldermen, the home was purchased by the late Eldon Mumme and his wife JoAnne in the late 1980's.

The Mumme home will feature eight rooms open to the public, each with its own spectacular array of period furnishings and family heirlooms. Decorating for the holidays is a family tradition with antique dolls and toys and tree trimmings.

Cucullu Home

121 Citizen Street
Bay St. Louis
11 a.m.-1 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Cucullu have lovingly restored and cared for this property listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Built circa 1868 the Cucullu home was a single residence occupied by two blacksmithing brothers and their families.

However, their wives wanted separate homes. To bring harmony to the families the brothers hired a local contractor from the Labat family in 1921 to cut the single residence in half and move one section 35 feet from the other. Traditional holiday decorations add to the charm of the many local artists' works displayed throughout the home.

Halcyon House

341 Main Street
Bay St. Louis
Noon-2 p.m.

This century old home, a primary example of a gable-roofed Creole cottage, is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The home features two entrances in middle bays with an undercut gallery. Double-leafed doors are set off by original shutters.

Furnishings reflect the period as do the holiday decorations. Hosts will be dressed in period costumes to greet and conduct tours of the original four rooms of Halcyon House constructed circa 1870. Dr. Lawrence Heller and Mr. Larry Timmerman are the owners.

Christmas cards display

Each year the artists of Bay St. Louis contribute to the spirit and joy of the holiday season by painting a Christmas Card to help decorate the city. There is no other city in the state which enjoys this type of annual outdoor exhibit.

Fine artists, folk artists, commercial artists and the Sunday artist have been decorating from six to 12 cards each year for display on light posts in the historic downtown area. The cards will be on display through Twelfth Night, January 6.

The project began with local gallery owner Jerry Dixon, who organized the artists in 1988, was added to by the Bay St. Louis Business Association who provides the cards, and assisted by the City of Bay St. Louis Public Works Department, who displays the cards.

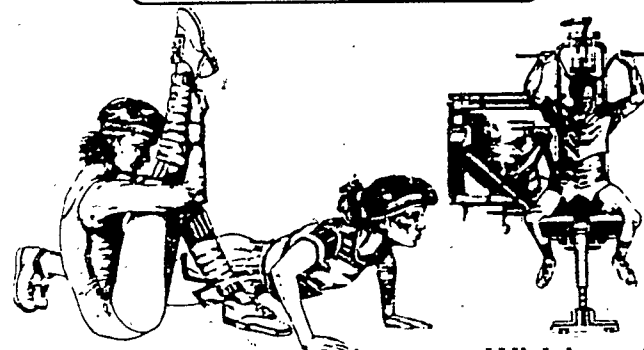

This year the group is joined by Main Street-Bay St. Louis, the new kid on the block, who will finish the display by putting on the red Christmas ribbons.

"These Christmas cards represent the essence of community pride and spirit. What better way to say 'Happy Holidays!' said Bay Mayor Eddie Favre.

Santa's Shop, just for the little ones

Bay St. Louis merchants have organized a wonderful shopping experience for children on Saturday, December 7, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Santa's Shop, located in the "Little Theatre" room at the Olde
Towne Restaurant on Main Street.

Your children may shop unaccompanied by adults, but supervised by the Princess Shopper Teen Board. All of the gift items are priced $5 and under.

Children have wonderful ideas of what types of gifts are perfect for parents, other family members, teachers, and friends. They notice that you dog-ear your books, love chocolate candies, like fancy earrings or bracelets, or maybe collect tiny Santas.

Santa's Shop is a wonderful learning experience for the children and demonstrates the importance of community support and involvement. It is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association.

A special thanks!

We would like to extend a huge THANKS! to several of our area banks for their support and assistance in making this year's Red Ribbon Christmas Celebration a wonderful success. The Old Time Trolley rides, available in each community, were made possible through the generous sponsorship of:

Peoples Bank, Bay St. Louis
Hancock Bank, Diamondhead
Merchants Bank, Waveland

This is just another example of the day-to-day support and community involvement demonstrated by these institutions on an ongoing basis.

We would also like to recognize other area businesses, residents, and organizations who have assisted in sponsoring, hosting, or planning many of this year's activities or decorations.

An old-time Christmas celebration

Hancock County is proud to present its second annual Red Ribbon Christmas celebration.

This activity originated to demonstrate community spirit and unity, as well as to entice residents to shop at home. Many activities have been planned to show just what is available in Hancock County.

The first such activity is a gift certificate swap. Registration boxes will be placed at participating merchants' businesses for customers to register for a $25 gift certificate from another participating merchant.

The placement of these boxes in a different merchants' place of business is to try to cross-reference the area—give shoppers a reason to venture outside their normal shopping locations to see what Hancock County has to offer that they previously have gone outside of the area to purchase.

Many participants have special activities and events planned throughout the month of December. Seymour's Jewelry and Gifts in the MarketTown Shopping Center in Bay St. Louis will have holiday discounts available to each, and every shopper.

Be sure to stop by to see what goodies they have to offer.

Saturday, Dec. 7, 11 a.m., Santa will be visiting at Bookends on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis. There will be story telling and refreshments will be served.

Bookends will also host an open house Saturday, Dec. 14 with special activities throughout the day. Santa will be very busy this season as he visits with children at several different locations throughout the area. He will be at Wal-Mart on Hwy. 90 in Waveland on the 6th, 7th, 13th and 14th of December to talk to the children for last minute requests.

Wal-Mart will also have special holiday hours and moonlight madness sales for the holiday shopper. Be sure to check with Wal-Mart for more details!

Several community activities are planned to provide fun and entertainment for the entire family. There will be parades, trolley rides, open houses, and home tours, guaranteed to please everyone.

Come out and join in the fun and help us spread a little Christmas Cheer!

Gift certificate participants

The gift certificate swap is designed to help area residents become more familiar with the wide variety of goods and services available right here in Hancock County. A registration box will be placed in each participant's place of business.

That registration will be for a different participant's gift certificate. Hopefully, this will develop a cross-reference of the area - give shoppers a reason to venture outside their normal shopping locations to see what Hancock County has to offer that they have previously gone outside the area to purchase.

Registration will begin on December 1, and continue until Saturday, December 14. The drawings will be that evening, and the names of the winners will be released in the Thursday, December 19 edition of The Sea Coast Echo. Winners will have until December 31 to redeem their gift certificates.
